

Message 05 .(March 2025)

Why are the ambassadors not allowed to appear in public, give lectures, and teach people?

Why must the ambassadors refrain from unnecessary conversations?

The following topic, which originates from the divine source of all being, must once again be passed on by people who are connected to God and are peacefully on your path of life and on the way back to your heavenly home, if this is your most ardent desire. The messages from the divine Source have never changed, but have always been adapted to the respective earthly circumstances in order to be of help and support to honest, sincere, and truth-seeking people. The current world situation is not good in any respect. Some of you may wonder why the messengers (prophets) do not appear in public as the prophets of old did. This question is justified, but it would cause difficulties for a messenger if he revealed his personality in public appearances. In order to receive a message, a high vibration is required. Even the smallest external details can quickly lower this vibration. If this vibration is not perceptible in the soul, it is not possible to receive a message. An ambassador can write about topics that are already known to the world, but receiving a message is something completely different. It provides information about things that are not known to people. An ambassador can talk about a particular topic with people who are very interested in it for a limited time, but such a conversation must be limited in time, otherwise the ambassador could gradually lose control of his thoughts and words and be tempted to talk about events that are no longer useful. Understand that the spirit of love never imposes itself, never tries to manipulate or influence people in their actions, because such a thing cannot exist in Heaven. According to the principles and laws of heavenly life, there is no influence, no imposition, and no pressure. Manipulation, deception, and lies, as you are currently experiencing them to an increasing degree on your planet, have nothing to do with the heavenly way of life. This is only possible on Earth because of the human body, which can well conceal the actual state of many souls. However, as soon as a sensitive and God-oriented person begins to speak, they very quickly recognize the difference between the various sources from which their words originate. The human body can hide many things, but not its gestures and manner of expression. Powerful and insistent words, attempts at persuasion, never originate from the divine source of love. If a messenger were to eagerly participate in a discussion, he would expose himself to great danger. He would be tempted to pass on what he has received from God with too much zeal, thereby placing his own personality in the foreground. However, this is not in the interest of our deity. A messenger who is under the special protection of God through heavenly beings of light would then be completely defenseless, because the heavenly beings of light and protection would have to sadly withdraw from such earthly discussions in order not to run the risk of harm themselves. With love and devotion, in harmony with the Deity, they fulfill their mission of salvation, which consists of protecting a messenger from the influence of souls bound to the earth. If a messenger (prophet) of God were to appear before people and teach or exploit the mission he has voluntarily accepted in order to be regarded as a sage and receive praise and honor, this would have disastrous consequences for this once humble, modest, and impersonal messenger. Understand that although a messenger has his own personality, he never flaunts it in front of others, but always stands on equal footing with his fellow human beings. He thanks the beloved Deity, the Spirit of Love, with all his heart and soul for every inspiration and every message he receives, and gladly shares them with people who are interested in them and then orient themselves in their lives so that they can return to their heavenly home without detours.

The prophets of old did not have the opportunity that is available today, thanks to your global means of communication, the Internet, to offer everyone the messages they received from the source of love. The messengers also have private lives and enjoy talking to their families or like-minded people, but they do not engage in political discussions or other controversial debates. They withdraw and prefer to leave these loud discussions to those who feel comfortable with them and feel the need to express their opinions loudly. However, do not forget that such discussions are very exhausting and consume a lot of energy that you will later lack. Fatigue and exhaustion are the result. Therefore, as benevolent and pious people, you should not allow yourselves to be drawn into such dogmatic discussions. It is better to hold back and remain silent in the face of unpleasant remarks. This is exactly what this messenger had to experience two days after writing this text. The experience was wonderful. The conversation was conducted in such a way that in the end, mutual respect and gratitude prevailed on both sides. The author has deleted his previous report about his visions. Publishing these visions could give the impression that the author considers himself superior to the abilities of others. However, this is by no means the case. That would no longer be humility, but arrogance. The messenger would like to sincerely apologize to his readers. In his next message, the messenger will instead talk about his own mistakes, which he still faces today and which he tries to overcome every day. (March 2025)

In God's love

Generous, honest, and God-fearing people really do not have an easy time on their journey through life and on their way back home. The souls bound to Earth who have no interest in returning to their heavenly being try in every possible way to harm those who try every day to realign themselves with God's love. To this end, they all too often take possession of people who are very close to them in their attitude to life and use them as useful tools. Unfortunately, these unknowing people are at the disposal of these malicious souls and serve as useful tools for them. They are not even aware of this. But these souls bound to Earth have destructive plans, and any means are acceptable to make life very difficult for benevolent people. This can lead to disputes that begin without reason and degenerate into various serious insults. When souls returning home engage in this game, they open the door to these malicious souls, who can then harm them so much that they become discouraged and powerless.

When people of good will then react by trying to defend themselves, the situation worsens even further. This state of affairs can be very difficult to bear and makes the soul that dwells in good and honest people sad. The normal reaction would be to defend oneself and put an end to the whole thing, but that would only make the situation worse. If the two people are very closely connected in life, the tragedy is particularly great and the pain inflicted is almost unbearable, especially if there is no valid reason for the conflict. However, the souls connected to the earth have every reason to incite their human victims to cause suffering to other people who are seeking peace. Very often, however, a trivial argument arises without any valid reason. The spirit of love asks you not to get drawn into such arguments and, as far as possible, to withdraw and not react to such provocations. Do not see those who wrong you at this moment as malicious people, but consider them, as far as possible and without getting upset, as tools of the earthbound souls who have targeted you to make your life difficult. Once the situation has calmed down, you will find a way to have a clarifying conversation calmly and without reservations, in which you should point out to your conversation partner that their behavior is not correct. However, remember that daily alignment with the Divine protects you from such attacks, but above all, reflect on your own mistakes and shortcomings. If you do not do this, you will find yourself on the "radar screen" of malicious souls, so to speak, and they will always find the point of attack where they can cause you the most harm. This messenger has often had to experience this. He has sometimes gone through difficult times and sunk into self-pity. Instead of searching within himself for his own mistakes, he gave in to pity and thought, "I haven't done anything wrong, how can someone do this to me?" But that is not the case. First in thought, then in words, and finally in deeds, the messenger also made mistakes. But his pride and self-pity prevented him from searching for the reasons for his own mistakes.

Only after questioning himself honestly and sincerely with the help of the spirit of love and in a deep and sincere spiritual and emotional connection with HIM did he gradually succeed in finding the causes. But do not forget that when the soul is in sincere connection with God through fervent prayer, it sends the right impulses to the person, which he must pay attention to. But also keep in mind that it is never possible to completely avoid situations in which other people do not treat you well. In this case, you should find silence within yourself and try to put these incidents into context. Never let yourself be guided by thoughts of revenge, for these do not correspond to the spirit or nature of God or the inhabitants of heaven.

Of course, you must be able to seek legal help if necessary, depending on the reason for and consequences of human conflicts.

In his foreword, the messenger reported that he belonged to a religious community and had held various church offices. However, this would not have happened if the messenger, as a human being, had sought and found the cause of his problem within himself.

He believed that it was now the task of God's and Christ's chosen ones to lead and serve Christ's sheep. The dear Lord would guide him in his tasks through the Holy Spirit, and he would now have abilities that other believers did not yet have. He did not think about his own mistakes, because the forgiveness of sins in Christ would make everything right. It was pure arrogance and pride that made him someone "special." He was proud and smug to preach to the congregation in the name of Jesus and to impose things on them that neither God nor Christ had ever demanded or wanted.

Please understand that this messenger cannot go into detail. But at least understand that the reason for all the following difficulties was pride and arrogance.

After the messenger left this religious community as a human being, the cause was still present in him. It then shifted to his professional life. Until then, his human nature had still not thought about what was really going on in his spiritual and human nature. The same scenario then repeated itself with the same mistakes and the same arrogance of being indispensable in his work. He believed that the pride of being praised and standing out from his colleagues was beneficial. However, he did not notice that his soul was increasingly suffering from this condition until it became unbearable, what is now called "burnout." Even then, the man still did not understand the reason. With this wrong attitude, this man also caused unnecessary suffering to his loved ones. Until the situation worsened to such an extent that his body could no longer cope and completely shut down, and the messenger could no longer go to work. His soul gave a final warning signal to indicate that it could no longer bear it and did not want to. The man broke down and prayed to God, with whom he had lost contact, to tell him what to do. With the help of his soul and thanks to his new connection to God, the messenger had to get to the bottom of things. His attention was then drawn to the website "God's Life Advice." Thanks to a very experienced messenger and the messages from the original source of all love, the difficult process of troubleshooting and becoming aware began. This process is far from complete, and even this messenger must strive every day to raise his spiritual and human vibrations through a deep and sincere spiritual connection with the divine. He often finds himself falling back into his old mistakes. Please understand that it is not easy, but vital, to recognize in one's thoughts, words, and deeds how quickly even a person connected to God, when attention wanes and arrogance increases, can fall back into his old vibrations and make his soul unhappy. It sends the appropriate signals to human consciousness and thus wants to protect us from making the same mistakes over and over again.

This messenger had to and must constantly have people with a big heart who are honest and close to God. They really do not have it easy on their path through life and on the path that leads them back home. The souls connected to the earth, who have no interest in returning to their heavenly being, try in every possible way to harm those who try every day to refocus on the love of God. To this end, they all too often take possession of people who are very close to them in their attitude to life and use them as useful tools. Unfortunately, these unknowing people are at the disposal of these malicious souls and serve as useful tools for them. They are not even aware of this. But these souls bound to Earth have destructive plans, and all means are acceptable to make life very difficult for benevolent people. This can lead to disputes that begin without reason and degenerate into various serious insults. When souls returning home engage in this game, they open the door to these malicious souls, who can then harm them so much that they become discouraged and powerless.

When people of good will then react by trying to defend themselves, the situation worsens even further. This state of affairs can be very difficult to bear and makes the soul that dwells in good and honest people sad. The normal reaction would be to defend oneself and put an end to the whole thing, but that would only make the situation worse. If the two people are very closely connected in life, the tragedy is particularly great and the pain inflicted is almost unbearable, especially if there is no valid reason for the conflict. However, souls connected to the earth have every reason to incite their human victims to cause suffering to other people who are seeking peace. Very often, however, an insignificant quarrel breaks out for no good reason. The spirit of love urges you not to get involved in such quarrels and, as far as possible, to withdraw and not respond to such provocations. Do not see those who wrong you at that moment as malicious people, but consider them, as far as possible and without getting upset, as tools of the souls bound to Earth who have targeted you to make your life difficult. Once the situation has calmed down, you will find a way to have a clarifying conversation in peace and without reservations, in which you should point out to your conversation partner that their behavior is not correct. However, remember that daily alignment with the Divine protects you from such attacks, but above all, reflect on your own mistakes and shortcomings. If you do not do this, you will find yourself on the "radar screen" of malicious souls, so to speak, and they will always find the point of attack where they can cause you the most harm. This messenger has often had to experience this. He has sometimes gone through difficult times and sunk into self-pity. Instead of searching within himself for his own mistakes, he gave in to pity and thought, "I haven't done anything wrong, how can someone do this to me?" But that is not the case. First in thought, then in words, and finally in deeds, the messenger also made mistakes. But his pride and self-pity prevented him from searching for the reasons for his own mistakes.

Only after questioning himself honestly and sincerely with the help of the spirit of love and in a deep and sincere spiritual and emotional connection with HIM did he gradually succeed in finding the causes. But do not forget that when the soul is in sincere connection with God through fervent prayer, it sends the right impulses to the person, which he must pay attention to. But also keep in mind that it is never possible to completely avoid situations in which other people do not treat you well. In this case, you should find silence within yourself and try to put these incidents into context. Never let yourself be guided by thoughts of revenge, for these do not correspond to the spirit or nature of God or the inhabitants of heaven.

Of course, you must be able to seek legal help if necessary, depending on the reason for and consequences of human conflicts.

In his foreword, the messenger reported that he belonged to a religious community and had held various church offices. However, this would not have happened if the messenger, as a human being, had sought and found the cause of his problem within himself.

He believed that it was now the task of God's and Christ's chosen ones to lead and serve Christ's sheep. The dear Lord would guide him in his tasks through the Holy Spirit, and he would now have abilities that other believers did not yet have. He did not think about his own mistakes, because the forgiveness of sins in Christ would make everything right. It was pure arrogance and pride that made him someone "special." He was proud and smug to preach before the congregation in the name of Jesus and to impose things on them that neither God nor Christ had ever demanded or wanted.

Please understand that this messenger cannot go into detail. But at least understand that the reason for all the difficulties that followed was pride and arrogance.

After the messenger left this religious community as a human being, the cause was still present in him. It then shifted to his professional life. Until then, his human being had still not thought about what was really going on in his spiritual and human nature. The same scenario then repeated itself with the same mistakes and the same arrogance of being indispensable in his work. He believed that the pride of being praised and standing out from his colleagues was beneficial. However, he did not notice that his soul was increasingly suffering from this condition until it became unbearable, what is now called "burnout." Even then, the man still did not understand the reason. With this wrong attitude, this man also caused unnecessary suffering to his loved ones. Until the situation worsened to such an extent that his body could no longer cope and completely shut down, and the messenger could no longer go to work. His soul gave a final warning signal to indicate that it could no longer bear it and did not want to. The man broke down and prayed to God, with whom he had lost contact, to tell him what to do. With the help of his soul and thanks to his new connection to God, the messenger had to get to the bottom of things. His attention was then drawn to the website "God's Life Advice." Thanks to a very experienced messenger and the messages from the original source of all love, the difficult process of troubleshooting and becoming aware began. This process is far from complete, and even this messenger must strive every day to raise his spiritual and human vibrations through a deep and sincere spiritual connection with the divine. He often finds himself falling back into his old mistakes. Please understand that it is not easy, but vital, to recognize in one's thoughts, words, and deeds how quickly even a person connected to God, when attention wanes and arrogance increases, can fall back into his old vibrations and make his soul unhappy. It sends the appropriate signals to human consciousness and thus wants to protect us from making the same mistakes over and over again.

This messenger had to and must constantly strive to learn to withdraw and to respect and accept every person as they are.

The spirit of love has encouraged this messenger to write this report in order to help benevolent people and guide them not to make the same mistakes or to recognize them and, with God's help, gradually get rid of them in a deep, honest, and sincere spiritual connection.

In the love of God to learn to withdraw and to respect and accept every person as they are.

The spirit of love encouraged this messenger to write this report in order to help and guide benevolent people not to make the same mistakes or to recognize them and, with God's help, gradually eliminate them in a deep, honest, and sincere spiritual connection.

In God's love