

Message 09

Why people who strive for truth and self-respect should not stop correcting their mistakes, especially now.

What effects do negative memories have on the body's cells and thus on human health?

How selfish people absorb the energy of honest and benevolent people, making them apathetic, tired, and powerless, and how these people can protect themselves from such people.

How negative memories, if not erased in the course of life, can burden the human body again in the next reincarnation.

How unpleasant character traits can be passed on to subsequent generations if they are not recognized and erased in time.

Why a person should not blame their ancestors for their unpleasant character traits.

What original sin is and why, 2000 years ago, attempts were apparently made to wash it away with water, and why this process is still practiced today.

How can original sins and mistakes committed be effectively erased so that they can no longer cause harm?

The mission of salvation of Jesus and his faithful disciples.

Why there are no saints and never have been, and why Jesus and his biological mother Mary should not be venerated and worshipped.

How fallen beings still try today to weaken the sacrifice of Christ in Jesus through false teachings in religious communities.

How the spirit of love exhorts religious leaders to reconsider their actions in view of their great responsibility towards believers.

What happened spiritually during the crucifixion of Jesus thanks to the original cosmic divine powers and how they worked.

What effects the crucifixion of Jesus had on the elements of the earth and why.

Why acts of war and their atrocities will never be forgotten by the earth.

Under the influence of the spirit of love, the messenger feels a strong desire to convey this message.

He wholeheartedly asks the deity for divine inspiration from the heavenly source, as well as the protection of the beings of light, so that no soul connected to the Earth can interfere with the transmission. The message would then no longer be transmitted in its purity. However, this requires a higher spiritual and human vibration.

If the radio frequency is not precisely tuned to a specific station, interference occurs and reception is no longer clear and distinct. At least that was the case with the old devices.

But this messenger now feels a deep desire to pass on what he has received to people who are seeking help and are honest with themselves. No one should ever be excluded or feel excluded. The love of God within oneself lies in one's faithfulness to oneself, in one's tolerance, understanding, mercy, patience, and eternal and immeasurable love within oneself, in one's universal and impersonal nature, and never excludes anyone. No one should ever feel that they are not loved by God. No one should ever think:

"I have made such serious mistakes that God is no longer interested in me." No, that is not true and has never been true. He wants to offer every person who seeks help and is honest with themselves the opportunity to draw from the heavenly source of all being. Of course, the level of knowledge varies from person to person, and that is quite normal. The spirit of love calls upon peaceful people: never give up and strive every day to recognize your mistakes step by step and gradually get rid of them, without fanaticism. But take this seriously and do not become lukewarm and sluggish in the process. Strive to refine your own self. Always strive to put your own personality aside and strive for equality with all people. Then you will find that you feel better and that your human body is raised to a higher vibrational level by your soul, and you will feel a sense of inner bliss, a pleasant inner warmth that flows evenly through you. Do not be afraid to deal intensively with your mistakes and weaknesses

. This encounter will do you good. Trust in the beloved divinity and in yourself. Remember this every day. You are a LIVING SOUL.

Unfortunately, many desperate people seek help in substances that alter their state and believe that this will protect them from the world and enable them to escape it. However, this is a serious mistake with tragic consequences. When humans were created by the fallen spirit beings, the cells were programmed to store all kinds of information.

As a result, no information about experiences and life lessons is lost

Thus, the cells of the body are not only energy centers for the healthy development of human beings and the maintenance of their health, but also the memory of the subconscious. The goal of the fallen beings was not to lose the experiences of their previous lives during their constant reincarnations and to continue developing in their next incarnation based on their previous lives. This means living a life that has nothing to do with the heavenly principles of life. They do not want to change their behavior, because if this realization took root in them, they could fundamentally change their lives with all their intentions. But they have no interest in that. These records of all kinds are passed on to the new cells with each cell renewal. However, if for some reason they are negative records, these are also passed on and can place a heavy burden on the new cells.

These are then no longer able to cope with this negative information and begin to weaken their vital functions, their actual cell activity, which can have dramatic consequences ranging from illnesses to very serious, even fatal diseases. Your body cells tolerate the storage of negative information very poorly and then feel uncomfortable. If they belong to a specific cell group that forms an organ, that organ also becomes ill. You are familiar with the expression “having this or that in an organ” from your everyday language. Well, this expression is not just a figure of speech, but has a very legitimate meaning. However, fallen souls are very good at dealing with negative energies . They draw the life energy they need to live from the people around them who think and act differently from them. So you can easily imagine why peaceful and honest people have great difficulty tolerating those who only pursue their own interests. They are often disappointed and exploited in their lives. Depending on the people they deal with, they feel robbed of their energy and tired. Unfortunately, the spirit of love cannot show you these things more clearly before your spiritual eye. Therefore, it is advisable to listen to the inner promptings of your soul. Over time, you will develop a sensitivity that will enable you to recognize and sense what kind of person you are dealing with. Whether they have good intentions or are just exploiting you to benefit from your positive energy. If the latter is the case, you will feel uncomfortable and tired in their presence, without knowing why. You will then need a lot of time to recover from this. Never forget that these people have no regard for benevolent people. However, thanks to your intimate and strengthened connection to the divine, you will receive the right impulses through your soul to know who you are dealing with. It is the subtle energetic connections to the soul that pass on information to the body's cells in an intense exchange. If they exist throughout a lifetime and are not explored and eliminated in a selfish and egocentric way, they remain until death. When death occurs and the soul leaves the body, the cells inevitably transmit this information to the soul as if through fine threads. If this information is not recognized and stored in the afterlife so that the soul can free itself from these burdens from its earthly experiences, it is stored and can be passed on by the soul to the newly developed cells of the newborn during the next reincarnation, where it is once again stored as negative information . However, since the newly developed cells are immediately flooded with this information

, illnesses can occur in childhood or even in infants

As you can see, there is an intense and constant exchange of information between the soul and the human body. Therefore, your top priority should be to delete the negative records from your subconscious, i.e., from your cells. However, if you are honest with yourself and are not ashamed to admit your mistakes, they will be passed on to your higher consciousness and you will become aware of your unpleasant character traits.

These negative memories inevitably release negative energies that significantly harm your well-being and not only make you physically ill, but also very depressed and dissatisfied with yourself. However, if you become aware of this and sincerely repent your mistakes and weaknesses, you can be sure that the divinity will help you.

Negative character traits are also genetically passed on to subsequent generations because they could not be recognized, corrected, and thus improved during the course of life. In many religious communities, this is referred to as original sin. This expression is certainly justified, but not in the form in which it is often presented.

The negative character traits of a person that they were unable or unwilling to recognize during their lifetime are inevitably stored in their genes. They live their life, are often aware of it, but justify it with statements such as "I certainly inherited that from my grandmother, my grandfather, or other family members. So-and-so and so-and-so were already like that." However, this way of thinking is very tragic, as it lacks the will to sincerely and honestly improve oneself. Thus, this genetic information about unflattering character traits remains and is passed on to descendants.

Upon incarnation, they are then inevitably incorporated into the genetic makeup and remain anchored, so to speak. If this person does not become aware of their inherited weaknesses and faults by allowing themselves to think deeply about them, nothing will change. It will remain a burden that they will have to carry throughout their life. Never blame your ancestors when you discover unpleasant things about yourself

. Do not be angry with them, because you now have the opportunity to break this cycle by recognizing yourself and completely erasing this inherited information

In this way, you refine your character traits and render the inheritance ineffective. However, do not make the mistake of thinking that this is so because your ancestors also carried these things within themselves. Think of the salvation of your soul; you have the opportunity to fundamentally change these things.

In many religious communities, numerous symbolic acts are performed, such as baptism with water to wash away original sin. The dear Lord does not reproach anyone, but he would like to emphasize that knowledge about these symbolic acts has developed considerably. Understand that in major religious ceremonies such as baptism, original sin is symbolically washed away, but also understand that this is not possible in reality. Inherited, unpleasant character traits cannot be washed away with water in a symbolic act

. This cannot work in this way and cannot replace a deep understanding of oneself

. The spirit of love would like to draw the attention of the clergy of all religious communities to the fact that it is necessary to thoroughly reconsider these things and not to cling rigidly to them. Your liturgies, visible to the naked eye, have led you over time to spiritual lethargy because you lack deep knowledge.

You who are responsible for instructing the members of your churches and thus the sincere seekers, ask the deity to change your attitude. With the incarnation of a heavenly soul into a human shell, the predispositions of the soul were already preprogrammed since its departure from the heavenly being. Birth into this world does not leave the soul unscathed, for from then on, heavenly qualities such as humility, modesty, and equality are lost, and qualities that are far removed from heaven and incompatible with the principles and laws of heavenly life, for now the laws of worldly life apply, programmed by the fallen beings, as you unfortunately know them today. For their intention was to remove themselves from the paradisiacal conditions in order to enter a world of domination, lies, deception, manipulation, and violence

. Please understand that not all newborns are automatically evil from the outset. No, that is certainly not the case. However, every human being is so strongly influenced by the spiritual influence of the incorrigible souls bound to Earth that their soul is very heavily burdened. This is the true reason for original sin. Many helping beings, who have voluntarily committed themselves to being a spiritual support and a beacon in the spiritual darkness of the Earth, must inevitably also walk the path of self-knowledge and spiritual awakening. With time, however, they become aware that their mission is quite different from the search for wealth, power, and recognition, to be in the spotlight, to be praised and recognized by people. They accept their personality again and do not place themselves above their fellow human beings. They are involved in many ways in doing good for people, nature, and animals. They do not suffer from what you call helper syndrome, but gradually become aware that they have a task to fulfill here and that they agreed to it before their incarnation with the deity, who promised to stand by them every day. Over time, however, these qualities and this helpfulness have unfortunately turned into fanaticism in many helping souls.

The baptism by water more than 2000 years ago undoubtedly had a strong symbolic value, and do not forget the state of consciousness that prevailed among people at that time.

Spiritual understanding had to be awakened over time. The people who were connected to God at that time had to be gently explained through the act of purification performed by the messengers of that time

, that a burden weighed on the soul and that this had to be removed. However, this could be better understood through the act of baptism by water, which is a symbol of purification and refreshing renewal of the soul.

This was the first glimmer of hope that was visible to the naked eye for all those who took the change in their state of mind seriously. At that time, there was unprecedented harshness and brutality among people. It still exists today, but has been refined in many ways through legalized acts of war with weapons that are destructive to humans

. However, its origin remains exactly the same. The spirit of the fallen beings has also become more intelligent over time and is very adept at deceiving and manipulating people. But the consequences are devastating and cruel.

When you come under the influence of bipolar divine energies through your changed attitude towards life, the negative energies are bundled and transformed by the bipolar energies. How can this be understood? When you have identified mistakes in yourself and recognized them correctly, you feel inner remorse. You do not pity yourself, but are now fully aware of what you have done wrong and sincerely regret sincerely. But now you can pass on these burdensome mistakes, which cause negative accumulations within you, to the beloved deity by sincerely and honestly asking them to erase them. However, this process can only take place through a simultaneous increased influx of bipolar divine energies. At that moment, all consequences of the mistakes you have made are transformed into positive energy within you and thus rendered harmless. You can perceive this within yourself through a deep feeling of relief and well-being. The burden has been lifted from you.

A genuine forgiveness of sins has taken place. However, this did not happen through pre-written prayers recited in churches and through a general forgiveness of sins pronounced by church dignitaries, but through your realization that you must give up these mistakes once and for all so that they can no longer burden you. To do this, you do not need so-called places of worship, but a heartfelt and sincere connection with the beloved deity. This process was only made possible by the work of the Christ incarnated in Jesus.

Thanks to his selfless devotion and that of his faithful friends, also incarnated healing beings on this earth, it was possible to mobilize the original, high-energy cosmic bipolar energies through the deity so that they could work and honest people could receive them in full consciousness, humility, modesty, and equality with all people.

The first forgiveness of sins, visible to the spiritual eye, took place on Jesus on the cross.

Christ, as the first creation of our spiritual ancestors, incarnated in the human being Jesus. His soul thus suffered the same consequences as the souls of all those who incarnate in a human being who has become flesh, i.e., in a visible shell. When his soul entered the newborn after birth, the genes of both his parents were transferred to his body cells, as is the case with all newborns.

Please understand that no human being comes into this world as a saint and therefore infallible.

Likewise, no human being leaves this earth as a saint.

Birth on your planet has its price for the soul. Every soul that is born as a helping soul is fully aware of this truth before its incarnation and birth.

Over time, however, it becomes aware of its true mission and the way in which it will fulfill it.

Appropriate human and spiritual development is necessary, as well as a spiritual awakening and expansion of consciousness. This had been very well planned by the fallen beings

, as it made every mission of help and salvation more difficult. They knew very well that the time would come when helping souls would incarnate to save the entire creation and thus prevent the regression and dissolution of the original creation, as it was known and loved by the fallen beings until then. They attempted this from the very beginning, because for them, the loss of their worlds, created according to their ideas and conceptions, was at stake. They wanted and want to resist this to this day by any means necessary. The foundation for the salvation of creation was laid by Christ and his companions at his birth.

But the plan of Christ and his closest companions was already known in the heavenly realm

. It was no secret, for just as the separation of the fallen beings from the heavenly beings was known, so too had the plan of salvation for the rescue of the entire creation already been established with the consent of all the inhabitants of heaven. What primordial love for the parents of creation and for the union of love prevailed among the beings of salvation that they accepted such a thing.

The outcome of this mission of salvation was completely uncertain. It involved enormous risks.

His birth was well known and therefore posed a great risk to the beings of the sphere of the Fall.

What would have been the point of his sacrifice if he had been born without blemish? Think about it with foresight. Neither his physical mother nor his physical father were without blemish.

They were people full of goodness, love, humility, and modesty, and they were very aware of their mission. Therefore, as you can read in your "holy books," an immaculate conception could never have taken place. Why should Jesus have been conceived differently than all other humans on this earth? You see how the fallen beings act to invalidate Christ's sacrifice through manipulative and erroneous teachings, especially when these are taught by highly esteemed and revered church leaders

. This is very tragic and leads to a 2000-year-old error with significant negative consequences. Christ did not make this sacrifice to be worshipped and revered by humans. For such an attitude invalidates the sacrifice of his life for the redemption of creation. Through this worship of people and saints, including Jesus' biological mother, Mary, there is no longer any essential equality and impersonality, and people of good will thus distance themselves from the heavenly laws and principles of life. If the conception had been immaculate, i.e., without a biological progenitor, genetic information would still have been transferred from the mother to the child. Christ is the first created of all our spiritual ancestors, our spiritual brother. When a luminous soul incarnates into a human body, which is necessary in order to live on this material planet, the soul is already imperfect. This fact was already known before the separation in the original creation, and the effects of incarnations with their consequences were also known.

But the fallen beings who had this separation and these new material creations in mind nevertheless accepted all of this

Please keep in mind that the life path of a newborn on Earth never serves to pass tests imposed by God. We often hear it said, "God does not impose more on you than you can bear." He allows these trials so that you may emerge from them stronger. The loving God would never do such a thing and would never allow it. That would not be in keeping with His benevolent, universal, and loving nature. What religious leaders and clergy of many religious communities refer to as trials are nothing more than the effects of principles of life that are foreign to heaven and have nothing to do with heavenly life. God respects human life on planet Earth and its equality with all heavenly beings in His I AM is creative and preservative of all life, regardless of kind.

In order to return to the heavenly home, one must learn, without fanaticism but with the necessary seriousness, to know one's true inner self, to become aware of the mistakes and heavy spiritual burdens revealed by the errors contained in one's genetic makeup and by wrong personal behavior, and to honestly acknowledge and correct them.

There is still time to do this. But do not put it off, because you do not know how much time you have left.

Christ, as the human being Jesus, followed precisely this path of self-knowledge. Only in this way could he become aware of his mission of salvation.

Over 2000 years ago, baptism by water was the only ritual visible and understandable to the human eye that symbolized a fundamental change in the “sinful human being,” the washing away of the burden of original sin and thus its neutralization. Note, however, that the understanding of hereditary predispositions was different 2000 years ago and yet is still practiced today by many religious communities as a “holy sacrament.”

As the deity has now explained to you, however, this process should be very different today

The visible process of inner purification through water on the cross corresponded to the opening of the spiritual eyes of those who could see spiritually, the “forgiveness of all sins” through the transformation of the faults that weighed on the soul, thanks to the bipolar divine cosmic energies in Jesus himself.

The sufferings that Jesus had to endure were unbearable, and the executioners who carried out these acts in all their cruelty were so insensitive that they did not mind torturing to death those condemned to death by crucifixion.

Through this process of transforming the errors weighing on the soul through the action of bipolar energies, not only are the negative energies transformed and thus neutralized, but their return and thus their storage in the memory layers of the Earth is made impossible, rendering the long-term consequences, the so-called “karma,” ineffective for humans.

This means that he is no longer subject to the consequences of his actions. This is the only way to attain true forgiveness of sins

To believe that Jesus gave his life for the sins (conscious, uncorrected mistakes that weigh heavily on the soul) of all people and that a pious prayer is enough to settle everything is a grave error that has catastrophic consequences for every soul transitioning to the beyond.

Before Jesus' death on the cross, something so great happened that it continues to have an impact on both the earth and the worlds beyond to this day.

The accompanying spiritual awakening and expansion of consciousness, the deep realization of inherited and committed mistakes, and the sincere and deep desire to acknowledge and correct one's mistakes towards one's spiritual ancestors and the beloved deity, beyond all earthly things, initially placed him in a mental, spiritual, psychological, and human situation that enabled him to forgive his tormentors with all his heart, despite all the torment and suffering they had inflicted on him, thanks to the spiritual depth and openness he had acquired. Only in this way did his sacrificial death on the cross take on its full meaning for all of creation. His sincere and deep devotion and love for the deity reached such a climax that the bipolar cosmic forces emanating from the original central sun, could now unfold their full effect through the deity, whom HE loved above all else, by transforming and neutralizing all the negative energies that were still attached to Jesus with such concentrated energy that the original particles of his light body literally began to glow after his death, thus becoming visible to all those present with spiritual visibility.

However, this process also had a significant impact on the elements of the Earth.

These are so sensitive and receptive to this event that the weather changed, which must have been frightening for those who could not understand it

The sun darkened for hours. This phenomenon was due to such intense and dense cloud formation that the region seemed to darken. This phenomenon was unknown to the witnesses of that time, who described it as frightening because they did not have today's knowledge of weather phenomena. There was a violent storm, the likes of which the inhabitants of this region had never experienced before and which they therefore found difficult to put into words. The elements of the Earth reacted to these concentrated negative energies of those who mercilessly tortured Jesus on the cross and even before his crucifixion. These negative energies, which emanated from his executioners and their accomplices and resulted from an accumulation of psychic charges made visible by their atrocities, were absorbed by the Earth's memory layer and returned with concentrated force thanks to the energetic connection with the elements of the Earth.

Do not forget that the Earth, your home planet, does not forget atrocities and stores them in the form of released negative energies. This also applies to the terrible wars that have been waged throughout history and continue to this day. The current acts of war are also stored and are therefore by no means ineffective. All the negative vibrations of the warmongers are reactivated in the memory layers of the Earth, as they are not neutralized by the divine cosmic forces, and they react with the four elements of the Earth causing enormous damage. Do not underestimate this. This happened during the crucifixion of Jesus. Two opposing energies were at work: that of forgiveness, i.e. transformation and neutralization, and that of violent counteractions caused by the terrible, merciless, and ruthless actions during the execution of Jesus.

In the love of God
