

Message 11

How this messenger himself doubted and how he had to recognize the true reasons for his doubts

About the true life of the inhabitants of heaven

How fallen beings try to hinder sincere people in their pursuit of the heavenly desire.

The seventh heaven with its seven dimensions as the highest level of consciousness.

Why God's creation is the cause of the creation of the material cosmos.

God is not the creator of the earth, but he is the cause of the creation of the earth.

The development of the physical body required a long evolutionary process to form a fleshly shell.

Subtle spiritual life cannot be extinguished.

How the human body was made functional.

Why genetic information must not be lost in the process of dying and how talents can be passed on in this way.

The mistakes of the soul are a great disadvantage.

Creation of an aid plan to prevent the dissolution of spiritual creation.

Earth is not the only planet of its kind.

Earth, a migration planet.

Earth has been visited by extraterrestrial beings several times.

How the extraterrestrial beings came into being.

How they were able to build spaceships.

There have already been several cosmic rescue operations.

To you, generous people who desire nothing more than to return directly home to where it all began, the spirit of love sends you once again a new message from the eternal source of love of all beings.

Even this heavenly messenger cannot thank the dear God with all humility and modesty enough for his kindness, mercy, patience, benevolence, and special protection in all ways.

Some readers will certainly ask themselves the question, and this is understandable from God's point of view, what entitles this messenger to claim that what he writes comes from the divine source. The messenger has asked himself this question. Even in his soul, considerable doubts arose, sometimes to such an extent that he would have preferred not to receive any more messages, because all kinds of thoughts tormented him, made him uncertain, and led him to believe that none of this made any sense anyway and that no one was interested in this nonsense. This was very disturbing and depressing for the messenger and instantly lowered his psychic and human vibration, and he no longer felt the pleasant and reassuring feeling of security and intimate connection with God. This is a very serious, almost unbearable state of confusion and complete discouragement. When a person follows these disturbing thoughts , they inevitably fall into a spiral of doubt and thus complete mental exhaustion.

This is exactly what happened to this messenger. In his despair, he turned to God with the following question “Does all this make sense? Is it a waste of time and just the product of the imagination of a sick mind? Dear God, let me understand why I suddenly have doubts and why I am afraid that what I am writing is complete nonsense.”

The messenger had to endure this time with patience and wait. He felt separated from the divine and unable to establish an intimate spiritual connection anymore.

But with gentleness and indescribable impulses of love, the messenger's soul was touched in an equally indescribable way by nature in its most beautiful form of expression, so that tears almost came to his eyes. The beloved deity gave the messenger, in many wondrous ways, the certainty not to be afraid, but to pay more attention to the thoughts he harbored every day. Unnecessary discussions about world political events unconsciously burdened the messenger's soul. The process was gradual, and little by little he no longer sought sufficient intimate connection with his beloved deity, thus opening the door to manipulative and destructive thoughts from malicious souls, but forgot to pray for intimate protection. Thus, the messenger came under the scrutiny of earthly souls from the beyond, who had long regarded his actions as abominable and wanted to harm him in every conceivable way in order to destroy his mission as a messenger. This messenger is very grateful to dear God for his benevolent and warm impulses, but also for his loving warnings to be vigilant and to better control his thoughts, actions, and deeds . Due to the messenger's remaining attachment to his mistakes, he has provided the malicious souls from the beyond with an ideal point of attack, precisely where the messenger still shows his greatest weaknesses as a human being. They know how to exploit this very well .

With the separation from the original miraculous creation by fallen beings who no longer wanted to live the loving heavenly life in this way and preferred to create material worlds out of their own creation, thanks to the enormous amount of energy that had been granted to them by the original central sun, everything took its course. It took a very long time after the Big Bang, i.e., the transition of the subtle cosmic energies to materialization, for the universe to develop into what you know today.

It is indescribable with what primal force everything began and what tremendous cosmic processes astronomers and astrophysicists can observe in the universe with the help of telescopes .

Dear people, when you enjoy observing the starry sky with the naked eye at night, be aware of where it all began, and you will see the universe with different eyes.

Many people look at the starry sky at night with nostalgia and admiration, wondering who could have created all this.

The beings created by your ancestors, the first of whom is Christ, are so imbued with all heavenly qualities that they cannot be described in human words in their entirety. They embody the

The beings created by your ancestors, the first of whom is Christ, are so imbued with all heavenly qualities that they cannot be described in their entirety with human words. They embody the quintessence of all that is good, with fulfilling love, mercy, patience, tolerance, understanding, and compassion, that the words that attempt to describe these qualities or virtues are so meaningless that they can only be fully understood in the heaven of the seven dimensions, in the I AM, in the eternal essence of every being, which fills the light bodies of all inhabitants of heaven without words

Preventing many people from feeling and exploring this wonderful feeling was a very clever strategy of the fallen beings. Barriers have been erected in the human brain that it cannot overcome, making it very difficult for it to understand the cause of its homesickness, a homeland it no longer knows. The unconscious and deep longing for a heavenly home makes many people unhappy, as they are sometimes overwhelmed by life on your planet and see the evil in the actions of many people. They sense and feel in their souls that life as it is lived on Earth cannot be a life of deep peace and happiness. For their innermost being, their light body, also called the soul, harbors a deep desire to return to where it once came from.

The ancient fallen beings who caused this merciless separation wanted to live a different life than the one they had lived until then in harmony and perfect equality with all the inhabitants of heaven.

In contrast to the creation of the material worlds through the Big Bang, the original creation began with the creation of the most ingenious, impersonal, and merciful being in the entire history of the original creation, the deity. The creation of divinity by the inhabitants of heaven was the deep desire and sincere pursuit of your ancestors. They had a deep and unshakeable desire not to be regarded as patriarchs and supreme advisors.

They wanted to be able to enjoy the praise, worship, and honor they had created out of love without coercion, obligation, or expectations of reciprocity.

The desire to stand above the heavenly beings they had created out of love was not among their deepest expectations. But that would not have been possible without relinquishing this responsibility.

All the inhabitants of heaven developed a sincere desire to share all the experiences they had gained up to that point, the innermost essence within themselves, the I AM, in its absolute purity, which until then had been free from the influence of the ego.

All the inhabitants of heaven developed a sincere desire to pass on all the experience they had gained up to that point, the innermost essence within them themselves, the I AM in its absolute purity, which until then had been free of praise, worship and arrogance, to a universal and ingeniously created being, following a democratic vote by all the inhabitants of heaven

. The creation of the deity as the most ingenious and impersonal being in the universe united all these qualities in itself and was itself overwhelmed by indescribable feelings of happiness and gratitude towards all the inhabitants of heaven. She, the Deity in the original Central Sun, from which all original cosmic energy originates, is thus the guardian and giver of these original energies. All life experiences, which all beings of light have gathered so far in their relationship to this original energy and to what they have created from it, are gratefully stored in the Godhead and gladly passed on by her to those who ask her for advice

. Not only in the heaven of the 7 dimensions, but also in all existing subtle worlds, where inhabitants live with their light bodies on different levels of consciousness.

The seventh heaven with its seven dimensions represents the highest level of consciousness, the absolute perfection of all imaginable qualities and the ability to perceive with the entire light body in the highest vibration and radiant light infinitely

. An intimate and incessant need and a deep desire for new creations under God's guidance and help, in order to create other worlds in absolute harmony, happiness, unity, equality of beings, and mutual joy. The heavenly world contains within itself the unlimited perception of all subtle beauties, including the beings of nature in their most beautiful form. What once served man on earth for his joy and life returns, when the moment of death has come, to both the plant and animal worlds, liberated in this subtle heavenly world, to the unlimited joy of all inhabitants of heaven. It is an infinite harmony of mutual joy and bliss to be able to see and gently touch flowers and all plants in their true nature as they lovingly reach out to the inhabitants of heaven and exude their sweet fragrances. Just as the little animal souls regain their freedom and no longer have to lead a tormented life in a fleshly shell on earth, even though many big-hearted people on earth care for them and look after them very much.

Thus, something wonderful was created that was intended to prevent divisions and hierarchies among the inhabitants of heaven. The deity does not want to be worshipped and praised, because that does not correspond to its creative nature.

It itself unites in itself the humility, modesty, and equality of all inhabitants of heaven, without distinction.

The beloved deity is the true reason why the fallen beings created a visible cosmos and thus also the planet Earth. God is not the creator, no, he is the reason for the creation of the visible universe, the transformation of the original cosmic energy into matter. In the long run, this was intended to cause humans to question his loving and impersonal nature. The existence of heaven was thus to be called into question.

Not all inhabitants of heaven were satisfied with this democratic vote, as they were unable to assert their personal interests. In the long term, they had completely different plans and intentions that no longer had anything to do with humility, modesty, and equality among beings. This was the birth of what humans today understand by the pride, envy, jealousy, lies and deception, fraud and manipulation in all their forms. The harmonious and loving relationships between the ancestors,

Christ, and the deity as a whole, which formed the true heaven of the seven dimensions , were unbearable for them. They harbored within themselves the idea of their own creation according to their own laws of the strongest and self-expression.

But the realization of their desires was not possible as former light bodies in heaven.

The entire original heavenly creation had to accept the implementation of their destructive plans as fulfillment and respect for their own will.

An enormous amount of cosmic energy was promised to them by the original central sun in the name of justice. For the global spiritual creation that had existed until then, this was a decisive turning point toward absolute opposites. Here the essence of absolute resistance to everything divine was revealed.

Only through such a destructive attitude could they create something that no longer had anything to do with the subtle, gentle, and loving world. The original cosmic energy of the primordial central sun, with all its fundamental elements, could never have produced a material cosmos that would have become visible other than through the Big Bang and thus through the transformation of energy into matter. What for astrophysicists is, of course, something gigantic that they can now observe and understand thanks to excellent space telescopes, is in reality a tragedy and an attempt to completely dissolve the wonderful spiritual creation so as never to have to return there again.

From a scientific point of view, the emergence of humanity is something great and special in global evolution. But this is only true to a certain extent. The development of a human physical body took a long time in global evolution to create a fleshly shell that provides all the necessary conditions for the incarnation of a light body.

Above all, it was important that the memories of the soul were not lost during incarnation into the human body. On the other hand, the fallen beings want nothing more to do with heavenly life and would rather completely erase the origin of their true being so that they no longer have to face their former heavenly life. However, this is not possible because the subtle spiritual life cannot be erased. Its origin cannot be hidden even in a physical shell.

Therefore, they had to resort to other means to eliminate the original subtle and luminous essence of their existence once and for all.

Since this is not so easy to do, it took a long time to develop the desired dissolution of their light body.

When incarnating into the physical human body, the light particles of the light body had to be transformed downward. Otherwise, the soul would not have been able to enter the body.

Otherwise, a connection between the soul and the human being would never have been possible. They had to find a way to connect them, at least temporarily and for a limited time. For the human body is not designed to live forever on planet Earth. The physical laws of gravity and thus normal wear and tear do not allow this. The wear and tear of the human body is inevitable, even with the most modern medical means available to us today. What an enormous effort was required to achieve this . But that's not all. The incarnated soul had to feel comfortable in its new environment, in its new home.

The carefree mobility that the soul had previously enjoyed in its lightness, like a dance full of happiness and joy, was now replaced by the heaviness and drudgery of an additional body, which first had to be mastered under the physical conditions of Earth.

An interface was needed to connect the soul to the body so that it could function. It needed a control center, the brain, to coordinate everything, to survive, to think and to act.

It needed the stability of the skeleton to resist gravity.

Thus, the corresponding organs had to develop slowly and gradually from the cell network of various cell groups. The corresponding functions were now assigned to them

The most important thing, however, was that the collected and accumulated life experiences were no longer simply lost after death, but that this important information had to be stored. The activity of the deity as an advisor was now consciously abolished and was no longer desired. Therefore, the cellular components, the genes, had to make this possible without any loss of information. This ensured that repeated reincarnations did not have to start from scratch again. For reincarnation was an essential part of human incarnation. The fallen beings had never had any intention of returning to heaven ; they had ruled this out from the outset.

On the other hand, the genetic information could not be lost at the time of death and therefore had to be transferred to the soul. At the time of death, all information would now be transferred to the soul in the form of subtle energy, as well as the experiences made on Earth. This also includes what you today refer to as talents.

Now you understand why various talents are passed down from generation to generation and why people often wonder where certain talents come from. This is important for human life, and it is good that no information can be lost, otherwise life as you know it would not be possible. There would always be a loss of important information that humans need in order to evolve.

However, the mistakes that the soul has made over time due to the increasingly poor behavior of humans are a major disadvantage.

At the moment of incarnation into the human body, it is no longer possible to remember the wonderful life in heaven. The fallen beings themselves have erected a memory barrier so that it is no longer possible to remember, and each new birth is, in a sense, a new experience on Earth. The ability to remember a previous life is thus completely prevented. Even today, it is not possible for humans to remember a previous life or what the afterlife, the spiritual world, looks like. And this is done intentionally to prevent the deep desire to return to the heavenly world. They consciously try to burden the soul so much that it has only one desire: to return to Earth again and again through continuous incarnations

Their guided way of life binds them magnetically to the Earth, to which they must return again and again because they do not have the necessary consciousness to want to change their behavior.

Please understand that not all souls born on Earth automatically have bad intentions and are not open to honest self-knowledge and the sincere desire to further expand their consciousness. No, that is not the case.

When the decision was made to approve this nonsensical plan of the fallen beings, a plan of salvation was simultaneously devised to save the heavenly spiritual creation from complete dissolution. Benevolent and warm-hearted souls, in their immeasurable spirit of helpfulness, were willing to the consent of all the inhabitants of heaven and the Godhead and to commit themselves not to let all these things take their course.

Driven by deep love and unshakeable trust in the Godhead, they were willing to leave the heavenly world to prevent the worst from happening. It took a long and intense period of preparation, followed by much grief and pain.

A painful human sacrifice was made not just once on Earth, but several times.

Countless helpful souls took it upon themselves to incarnate into a physical body, as this was the only way to intervene in the plans for destruction. Although the will of the fallen beings to live their dramatic lives was respected, they were given a limit that they were not allowed to exceed. This includes, among other things, the limited time available to them to develop in their new lives. You are now at a point where this period is slowly coming to an end and the unipolar energies in the universe and on Earth are steadily decreasing.

You must know that, due to the consequences of such a way of life, your Earth is one of the darkest and least luminous planets in the universe. However, it is by no means the only planet of this kind that has made such a life possible. In many countries around the world, many people are confronted with major problems of coexistence between very different cultures and their origins. You call these problems related to the migration of other people and their origins.

However, you must know that your planet has always been a planet of migration. Not all people who populate Earth originate from Earth. No, that is not the case.

People who have been influenced by malicious souls connected to Earth have deliberately brought this migration problem into the world in order to distract from the actual events of the past.

In the consciousness of many people, the terms “immigrate” and “emigrate” now have a bitter aftertaste. But that was precisely their goal: to sow discord, hatred, misunderstanding, and intolerance among people like germinating seeds.

This required a long period of preparation, marked by recurring armed conflicts and the oppression of people with dissenting opinions. Slavery and exploitation were the harbingers of unspeakable human suffering and pain. However, these are no longer compatible with the heavenly laws and principles of life.

There are many people among you who believe that the Earth was visited by extraterrestrials many times long ago.

They are convinced of this idea. Well, they are absolutely right.

The beings of help and salvation from the heavenly home could not stand idly by in the face of events, the creation of a material universe, because they knew exactly what was coming and what the consequences would be. With the consent of all the inhabitants of heaven, they were prepared, within the framework of the love covenant of heaven with the beloved deity, to create a way to intervene when necessary to help and support. They never wanted to have a material and physical bodies, but they had to find a way that would enable them to intervene when necessary to help and save, without, however, changing the course of evolution as a whole

Thanks to their high level of consciousness and their light bodies, which were equipped with all spiritual abilities, they were able to materialize, but in a different way than the fallen beings.

They had to be careful not to weaken their luminous soul too much when they took on a body, as had been the case with the fallen beings. They could not burden their soul, lest they suffer the same consequences as the fallen beings

They created partially material planets, created physical bodies that adapted to the physical conditions of their respective solar systems, and were always able to dematerialize again. This possibility was available to them thanks to their very high level of consciousness, which they maintained under all circumstances. Their undertaking was very risky and fraught with many dangers.

They created worlds from the basic elements of the original central sun, but used their abilities to create something here that was intended solely to intervene in other galaxies and solar systems in order to help and rescue when necessary.

They were also able to create spaceships or gigantic space gliders. They had to be able to move from one point to another in record time at a speed faster than that of light. They do not circumvent the applicable laws of physics, but rather make them their own without negatively influencing them. It is the absolute harmony of their state of consciousness with all existing primordial elements, both spiritual, subtle, and solid elements of matter. This circumstance distinguishes them from humans on Earth and their possibilities.

You humans rightly ask yourselves how they can survive with their bodies at such gigantic speeds that are incomprehensible to the human mind.

Well, thanks to their level of consciousness and their ability to dematerialize and rematerialize, they can connect evenly with the materials of their spaceships or form a unity. It is, so to speak, a fusion of all existing elements in harmony and unity into a whole.

Now imagine that you, as humans, had the ability to move instantly from one place to another through the power of your imagination alone. This ability would not be limited to planet Earth, but would extend to the entire solar system. You would only need a fraction of your time and your perception of time to reach that place. This is what extraterrestrials do with their flying objects. They harmonize perfectly with the subtle and material worlds.

This transition is the basis of their possibilities.

You have observed that they can dive into water with their flying machines without suffering any damage. The wonderful element of water, in complete harmony with its molecules and atoms, connects with them in such a way that they can make their way without the slightest resistance to dive underwater and move there

. There is no such thing as resistance for them. It is and remains a perfect harmony and interconnection of all atoms and molecules, without causing any damage. Can you follow this thought?

Their mission is and remains a rescue mission, an intervention to support, build, and preserve life when danger threatens. They have given themselves this mission

. However, they can interrupt their mission at any time and return to the heavenly world

. They do this after a certain period of time so as not to overtax their light bodies

They take turns in their mission. This gives them the opportunity to live their harmonious lives with their doppelgangers in the heavenly world.

However, know that such cosmic rescue operations have already been carried out several times

When the planet on which humans like yourselves lived on Earth was threatened, either because your home star was nearing the end of its existence or because the planet could no longer maintain its vital functions, they intervened with their spaceships to help, protect, and evacuate the people living there.

Cosmic rescue missions have thus been carried out several times. The Earth now offered all the physical and vital conditions necessary to continue living there

Of course, this requires a different level of consciousness. However, some primitive peoples are very aware of their cosmic origins and therefore maintain a close and warm spiritual connection to their saviors. This connection still exists today. However, their attitude is not understood by everyone and is often met with incomprehension.

Therefore, you humans should not speak so carelessly about immigration of any kind, but always be aware that not all origins of your humanity can be found on planet Earth. Please bear in mind that certain peoples of your Earth cannot deny their origins and that their way of life therefore remains deeply rooted in them.

However, you should try to live your lives on your planet in mutual respect and understanding. Do not forget that extraterrestrial saviors would intervene immediately to help if the living conditions on Earth were no longer viable, as they have done many times before. Therefore, you should not fear their appearance and presence on and around Earth. They know the conditions on the planet better than you do.

They recognize the current disharmony of the elements and know the exact reason for it.

Many people who are influenced by malevolent entities from the beyond mistakenly believe that they can restore the balance of power by developing nuclear weapons. They have long been experimenting with deadly and destructive weapons and pretend that they have accomplished something great, but in reality they do not know the exact effects of their actions and do not know how atoms behave among themselves during nuclear fission. Their knowledge is still in its infancy and they have only a vague idea of the harmony of the basic elements. The same applies to the effects of their actions among you humans. Destructive and life-destroying. But they find it difficult to give up their plans to exercise their power and demonstrate their superiority.

Since time immemorial, fallen beings have tried in their repeated incarnations to appear credible and distort the true nature of divinity. However, in order to appear credible, one must spread lies in the world and expose them as such.

They know the true nature of God as a brilliant, impersonal, and loving being in the universe very well. But since time immemorial, they have been trying to undermine the original existence of divinity through lies and misrepresentations to gullible humans

. Thus, faith is lost and many people torment themselves with thoughts such as, "If there were a God, this and that would not exist." This is a tragic situation. Through the creation of the material cosmos and thus the Earth, they now have the opportunity to question the existence of God. (August 2025)
