

Message 12

Why there may be long breaks between messages

How malicious earthly souls can influence people's free will

The birth of a human being is not subject to chance, but is very well planned.

Even Christ, in his human incarnation under the name of Jesus, followed this path, from his natural conception to his birth, like any newborn child.

Heavenly messengers do not become messengers because they lead honorable and blameless lives or because they are pleasing to God and chosen.

Why children follow their own path in life and how concerned parents should not blame themselves for their children's actions.

From the original source of all being and the immeasurable love of God, the Spirit of Love conveys the following message to peaceful and sincerely seeking people who sincerely want to change their inner selves, in order to guide them spiritually and encourage them not to give up, to work on themselves indispensably and honestly in order to change their nature positively and thus anchor the heavenly principles of life more and more within themselves, but without fanaticism.

Never forget that it is not necessary to go to church for this, which according to human ideas is an indispensable necessity. However, the Deity would never prevent or forbid a person who believes in God from doing so.

God is not a God of commandments and prohibitions, even if this is often misrepresented by certain religious leaders.

But this never corresponds to the pure and loving nature of God, please believe me.

The prophets of the past also conveyed God's messages to people, but there was always the great danger that the messages of the heavenly being, which were conveyed through the spirit of love, would be mixed with human considerations and passed on through the direct spiritual influence of earthbound souls. It is a great responsibility for the messengers to convey the messages of the heavenly being to people. However, a messenger must not assume that readers unreservedly agree with his own opinion and ideas, that they read the messages without further ado and accept them unconditionally. Many will rightly view what is written with skepticism, as it contains information that was unknown to so many people, but this also applies to the messenger himself. The messages received are also new to him, and like any other reader, he must first study them thoroughly, especially after writing them down. The Spirit of Love would like to explain to the readers of the Heavenly Messages how these messages are received.

Dear travelers returning home who take your return seriously, you must know that the Spirit of Love would never impose itself on a human being in any way . Let us always assume that this is an offer that every messenger of the messages of the Being of All Beings receives, and that he never feels the inner pressure to pass on the messages he has received under any circumstances, because otherwise he would be plagued by a guilty conscience and suffer the negative consequences of his inaction. The beloved deity would never do such a thing . That would no longer correspond to the free will of a human being and thus also not to that of a heavenly messenger. Under spiritual pressure, however, it would be impossible to receive the spiritual knowledge of the free spirit of love. Always assume that God offers and never pressures a person to act according to his will . Every person, and thus every messenger, is free to decide if and when they want to fulfill their heavenly mission. However, they will increasingly feel the inner desire to draw from the noble source of pure being and to pass on what they have received out of love and free will, free of charge and without expecting anything in return. He has received it free of charge and therefore wishes to pass it on free of charge to any interested reader .

However, each reader should be able to decide for themselves whether they are interested in these messages, whether they wish to change their lives accordingly, or whether they wish to continue living as they have done until now. But even in this case, the spirit of free and independent love will never reproach anyone. However, you can feel within yourself what each heavenly message triggers in you. If you are happy and your soul longs more and more for the divine messages, if you feel deep within yourself the desire to change something in your life, and if you do not consider earthly life to be the center of all human existence, which, according to God's will and His almighty desire to serve Him here for His pleasure, as described many times, then you will gradually, without fanaticism, strive for it with sincere, growing desire, voluntarily and without compulsion, to mature spiritually, humanly, and soulfully and return to the heavenly being . You will take pleasure in gradually consolidating the principles and laws of heavenly life within yourself. However, you will not succeed in this right away, and you will repeatedly find that you are still making this or that mistake, but this should not discourage you, but rather delight your soul, because when you feel this, you are on the right path. Your soul is the messenger of divine impulses that show you what is good and what is not, just like a good human conscience. Therefore, do not be discouraged and ask me, the Divine, to assist you with love, courage, without fear and without reproach. When you pray, do so with childlike faith and a joyful heart. Place the worries and difficulties of your earthly life in God's hands, and I will smooth the way for you to receive help. However, be patient and do not act rashly and without consideration. However, many people should also know that they should not read these messages yet if they have interests that are completely different from the goal of their heavenly return without detours. This would lead to inner conflicts for them. This is by no means a reproach. However, other interests are at the forefront for these people. They are not bad people, but they often allow themselves to be guided and manipulated by earthbound souls who seek out people to satisfy their needs, as they can no longer do so without a physical body. Unfortunately, there is a widespread belief among you humans that people who have led unhealthy lives, whether through excessive consumption of alcohol or other addictive substances or through excessive and uncontrolled sexuality, will immediately receive help and purification. However, this is not the case. At the time of their transition to the afterlife

, nothing will change at first. Their deep desires remain, but they no longer have a physical body to satisfy their desires. If they do not understand that these things have caused them great harm on a spiritual level, they will not be able to easily get rid of this burden weighing on their soul. They look for suitable victims, people who lead the same lifestyle as them, and try to influence and manipulate them so that they can satisfy their needs and use their human bodies. However, the spirit of love does not wish to delve further into this topic here.

It will return to it at another time.

When a sincere seeker feels a deep desire within themselves to mature spiritually with God's help, they can draw on the heavenly messages and thus receive a new spiritual orientation. However, they can continue to live their life with all its joys and responsibilities. They will, however, be able to see and understand many things differently.

The spirit of love now asks the readers of these messages to be patient with this heavenly messenger when there is sometimes a long interval between messages. It is not possible for this messenger to continuously receive new messages through divine inspiration. Many aspects of daily life mean that the messenger is not always in the spiritual and human vibration necessary to receive new information. However, this would carry a great risk of human knowledge mixing with the heavenly messages

This messenger is not always in the right frame of mind to concentrate fully on the image transmissions and inspiration. He is a human being who is not infallible, and like any other honest and God-connected person, he must make great efforts to continue to mature spiritually.

Sometimes the messenger needs a lot of time to put a particular topic into writing.

The beloved deity conveys wonderful thoughts to him, but the messenger cannot easily put them down on paper. He must first familiarize himself with them and be able to fathom their depth. A certain maturation of the spiritual transmissions is necessary in order to be able to recognize the correct overall picture. Then one must have the appropriate vocabulary to be able to put down on paper what one has seen and received through inspiration

. This can sometimes be very difficult, as for certain things the right words are lacking and it is not always possible to convey what the messenger sees as the overall picture. However, rest assured that this messenger does everything in his power to fulfill his mission.

Some readers will rightly ask themselves how a simple human being can become a messenger.

The Spirit of God would like to explore this topic in more depth and try to explain in human words why a human being takes on the role of a messenger.

A person never becomes a heavenly messenger because of their better behavior and infallibility towards their fellow human beings. Nor do they become a messenger of heavenly messages that emanate from the pure spiritual being of every human being because of special abilities or because they lead a life pleasing to God and thereby direct their attention to God.

That would be a selection among many people, which does not and cannot exist. No, that is really not the case.

When the separation took place at the time of the original creation and the material worlds were created without God's intervention by the fallen beings, the inhabitants of heaven had already worked out a plan of assistance so that the inner desire to return home would not be lost among humans later on. There have always been benevolent people who were close to God, had noble character traits, and never tired of helping others in some way. There have always been people who, deep in their souls, incessantly asked themselves the question of the meaning of life on this planet.

Over time, they realize that their earthly life cannot be limited to their birth, their life path, and their death at an indeterminate point in time. They are sincere and honest in their search and constantly seek answers to the deeper meaning of their lives. They see very well how everything on the planet is changing over time and how living conditions are becoming increasingly threatening and uncertain.

But they are unable to organize their thoughts and understand even less the work of God in all of this.

By reading the "Book of Books," they receive a lot of information, but this does not always help them. Although much of this content was written or transmitted by the prophets of the past, these messages conveyed what was very necessary for the circumstances at that time.

However, there was and still is today a great danger that heavenly messages will be mixed with human thoughts and desires. A prophet or messenger must put aside his personal desires and not assume that the people who receive these messages will immediately comply with them and act accordingly. A prophet must not take it personally if people do not follow his messages, doubt them, or do not recognize or accept the prophet as such. This has often happened in the past and has led to wrongdoing on the part of these prophets.

However, one must not hold this against them.

Today, however, the requirements are quite different. The divine messages have by no means become easier, but they must be taken seriously, as your planet is plagued by unrest and many people are very concerned about what the future will bring

The inhabitants of heaven have never ruled out the possibility of helping humans spiritually through helpful beings. However, the principles and laws of heavenly life must be respected. The origin of all spiritual existence is modesty, humility, and impersonality toward all inhabitants of heaven and their abilities.

Many inhabitants of heaven have voluntarily taken on the task of working with love to save all of creation, in whatever form that may take.

They have left their heavenly home, and the agreement between them, the inhabitants of heaven and the deity was to get involved in order to help prevent the fallen beings from achieving their destructive goals. For that was their original goal, so that they would never have to return to their heavenly home. They no longer wanted to accept the unified heavenly life and therefore had their own ideas, which were the exact opposite of what is lived in heaven in absolute harmony and equality among all inhabitants of heaven. However, their plan of destruction was thwarted by the incarnation of Christ in Jesus and many believers who accompanied him. The spiritual work of Christ in his humanity, Jesus, was the exact opposite of what people revealed at that time. The exercise and implementation of violence, power, greed, and unkindness towards the weak and most vulnerable of that time. The way in which power was exercised then and still is today plays a subordinate role here. At that time, the powerful were deprived of their wealth and the exercise of their greedy power by the incarnation of Christ. The birth of Jesus was a thorn in their spiritual side from the very beginning. On the other hand, his actions were completely misunderstood, as it was believed that a new kingdom would be created. These two schools of thought reflect the exact opposite life of the seven-dimensional heaven. Elimination of equality, arrogance, lust for power, wealth at the expense of other people. Worship of a king and his elevation to a throne, in order to then belong to his many chosen ones who have the right to remain at his side. In this way, they would occupy a higher position than the others.

They would now belong to the close circle of initiates, to which not everyone access. However, such an attitude contradicts the heavenly principles of life.

Nevertheless, this lust for power has remained among the people of your planet to this day and is developing into an uncontrollable world order in which only the power of the strongest counts. It is a true tragedy that is currently unfolding on your planet.

Everything that is visible and invisible to the naked eye has its origin in the original creation. However, humans with their physical eyes are not able to see the original spiritual creation, even with the most modern space telescopes. Humans will never be able to develop this ability . However, one should never rule out the possibility of using divine inspiration to help people of good will understand the connections between spiritual and physical creation.

However, the human mind will never be able to comprehend the full extent of original being. It is only small drops of the original creation that the spirit of love conveys to people who strive in their souls to tirelessly seek their spiritual vision of knowledge and the expansion of their consciousness. This does not elevate them in any way above their fellow human beings. Deep within their hearts, they cherish the desire to pass on with love and humility what they have experienced thanks to their growing spiritual and human consciousness. This is what Christ did in his humanity, Jesus.

Just as the birth of Christ in a physical human body under the name of Jesus was no coincidence, neither is the birth of any human being on your Earth a coincidence. Neither the place of birth nor the parents are coincidental, as is often claimed.

It is often said that no human being can choose their parents or their place of birth. But this is not true. This widespread opinion has become widely accepted, and many people are satisfied with this explanation. In the entire creation, both on the subtle and gross levels, there are never any coincidences.

All things that you humans can see with the naked eye have their origin in and from the original creation, namely the original central sun, the sun of all existing suns.

All the fundamental elements are contained within you in subtle form and always have been.

They contain as immense and unimaginable an amount of energy as all the existing suns of the visible universe combined. However, these cannot exist without the sun of all suns, the original central sun. To this day, there is an intense exchange of original cosmic energies, which, however, have been converted into unipolar energies. Invisible but existent, the suns of the entire universe depend on the energies of the original central sun for their survival.

Your home star also interacts with the original central sun.

Please understand that various topics are repeated, as the connections are otherwise difficult to understand.

The inhabitants of heaven have made important decisions and continue to make them in order to engage as helpers on your Earth. Many of them have taken on various tasks that have already been determined in the heaven of all heavens and agreed upon with the deity. If this were not the case, they would violate the life principles of heaven. In order to fulfill their mission of assistance on Earth they need a physical body that meets the necessary requirements.

The incarnation of a light body does not happen spontaneously, by chance. The incarnation of Christ in his human being Jesus could only take place after the parents were ready to receive him. Only through natural and human means of procreation was the mother of Jesus fertilized. Procreation could never have taken place in any other way, as is often taught. There is no such way of procreation.

The child developed in the womb like any other conceived child, without any difference. This great event was well known in the beyond.

Christ, the first created being of the original parents, had to follow the same path as every other soul during his incarnation. In an intermediate space between heaven and earth, i.e. between the subtle, high-energy heavenly world and the gross material world.

An incarnation from the seven-dimensional heaven into the physical body of a newborn would not have been possible. An intermediate stage was required with the transformation of the original bipolar cosmic reaction energies into unipolar inert energies, otherwise the incarnation would not have been possible and an intimate connection with the newborn human body could not have taken place. Understand that you cannot light a light bulb as you know it with high-voltage current

The energy supplied would be incredibly large and this light bulb would immediately burst. At the moment of Jesus' birth, the incarnation of the light body took place, i.e., the body of the soul of Christ in the human being Jesus.

With the baby's first cry, the entry into the newborn body was complete. The first flow of air that filled the infant's lungs with breathable air, the first vital element of the earth, enabled the infant's first cry, as with any other newborn. From that moment on, this child had to develop and grow like any other child. It took the necessary time for Jesus to recognize his mission thanks to a heartfelt and sincere connection with the divine. To this end, the environment and all related circumstances had to be adapted. From his birth to his death on the cross, Jesus' life was constantly threatened. The fallen beings did everything in their power to prevent his spiritual and mental development and thus the expansion of his consciousness and spiritual maturity. This situation has not changed to this day. Although 2000 earthly years have passed, the spiritual development of the evil spirit beings connected to the earth has also changed and over time they have become more intelligent and adapted to earthly conditions. They know and recognize the weaknesses of humans very well, in order to influence them negatively in every conceivable way. Thanks to their repeated reincarnations and the experiences they have gained during their earthly lives they know exactly where to start in order to influence many people according to their will.

It is only partially true that humans on Earth have free will.

In order to escape the influence of these evil spirits as much as possible, you must establish a deep and heartfelt connection to the divine through your soul.

Do not allow strange and negative thoughts to enter your mind; reject them. Once they have taken root in your brain, it is not easy to get rid of them. Reject them by consciously saying to yourself: "Go back to where you came from, I don't want you." You will then feel within yourself that you feel better and a sense of relief sets in.

Unfortunately, many people are controlled by such evil souls without being aware of it

They believe they are acting of their own free will and are proud of it, but this is not the case.

They understand that the birth of a human being is not a coincidence, but is planned in advance

. This means that, thanks to their previous incarnations, humans have stored all the information from their life experiences in their subconscious, i.e., in the cells of their body, and that this information remains there throughout their entire life, even if it is not active in their consciousness, i.e., in their mind. When the soul separates from the dying person, this information is transferred to the soul and remains integrated in the afterlife, where the soul's whereabouts are determined according to its level of development. Sometimes it can be very difficult for the soul to make a change and acknowledge that the life it led during its stay on Earth has weighed heavily on its soul. In addition to life experiences, there are also hereditary predispositions or predispositions from previous generations of the family. Please understand that this is not a reproach, but a law of life on your planet. You talk a lot about inheritance and heirs, but many people are not aware that according to your laws, not only earthly goods are inherited, but also the various predispositions and talents of your ancestors.

Depending on the predisposition of the soul that has entered eternity, it wants to be reborn with these predispositions and memories that were previously transferred to it by humans

. This requires the right parents in the right place. Sometimes a connection between two people is consciously brought about in the knowledge that after conception, a new human being will be born with all the necessary characteristics that have already been transferred to them by their parents, and that all the prerequisites for a new life on earth are thus in place. Some parents are very surprised that their child displays various talents and abilities at birth that become apparent very early on. These can, of course, be very positive and serve the well-being of their fellow human beings. Unfortunately, the opposite can also happen, and despite all the efforts of the parents, the child's development may not be very positive. These parents usually torment themselves with reproaches that are not appropriate here. Please understand that as caring and responsible parents, you cannot preprogram your children's lives. Nevertheless, it can happen that your child takes a direction in life that you do not like and that makes you sad. Then you ask yourselves, "What did we do wrong?" Of course, family relationships can play a role, but ultimately you have no influence over what was given to the person when the soul incarnated. It is sometimes very tragic and sad to see how parents destroy themselves because of the way their children live their lives. But you must know that you cannot know what burdens the child's soul already carried with it at the time of its incarnation. Nevertheless, you always have the wonderful opportunity to be a great support and help to your children through a heartfelt and sincere connection to God, so that the past information that the soul brought with it and that was passed on to the body can be erased. In the womb, the umbilical cord connected the developing child to the mother; after birth, it is the connection that links the soul to the physical body throughout its life. U
