

Message 13

For self-honest people seeking help who want to change their lives and place their trust in the beloved deity.

The spirit of love in the I am from the being of all being, the heavenly home, would like to continue to let drops from the immeasurable source of all existing love flow to you kind-hearted people through this messenger.

Every newborn human being brings their different character traits with them when they enter your world. However, it is the case that these different character traits are not uninfluenced.

In the previous message, the Spirit of God pointed out that you humans cannot always act according to your free will, even if this is your deepest heart's desire, which is very understandable from my divine perspective. However, a person's character traits are very impressionable.

Unconsciously, under different life circumstances, reactions can arise that surprise the person themselves. This has to do with their personality.

Unfortunately, many human reactions are characterized by jealousy, envy, hatred, pride, and envy. Such basic traits that many people carry within themselves can have a very negative effect and sometimes lead to acts of violence.

This is very tragic and has already caused a great deal of harm on your planet.

Humans are very vulnerable with their personality. This includes the current BEING of the inner BEING.
This can sometimes lead to acts of violence.

This is very tragic and has already caused a great deal of harm on your planet. Humans are very vulnerable with their personalities. This includes the current BEING of the inner BEING. This sometimes clouds spiritual vision and causes humans to view many earthly things with short-sightedness. They are then very vulnerable, whether through experienced injustice, heartbreak, disappointments of all kinds, betrayed trust, or exploitation of their good nature. You call the reactions that arise from this emotions, the expression of the feelings of the soul.

The primordial central sun was and is the origin of all subsequent spiritual and material creations.

Before anything ever came into being, spiritually or materially visible, the Primordial Central Sun existed. Until then, it not only contained all the basic elements that exist today and were necessary for creation, but it also energetically gave rise to what you call love, goodwill, tolerance, understanding, that is, all the positive qualities imaginable that you dear humans know today. It is the true origin of everything that humans, who are honest with themselves, desire most ardently. Loving actions toward fellow human beings inevitably release positive energy that is beneficial and tangible for people who interact with such kind-hearted individuals. Please bear in mind that it is not only good deeds that matter, but what you call inner disposition. It is a good-natured, warm-hearted attitude that brings this about. It raises people to a higher spiritual vibration, which enables the light body within the physical body to expand and thus surround the physical body as an aura. Human beings, in their material, gross physical form, have moved to the center of all earthly events. They are given a great deal of attention, and very often the soul that lives within them is neglected. However, once it has entered into an intimate connection with the human body after birth, it has no choice but to accept the decisions that a person makes throughout their life. The incarnated light body, if it is not too burdened by previous incarnations, is then dissatisfied with this state and makes itself known in a way that you refer to as psychosomatic illness, which is very close to the truth. The harmony that should exist between soul and body is not present. Under such circumstances, it is sometimes very difficult for the incarnated soul body to communicate with the outside world, that is, to enter into a relationship. What humans desire is not necessarily what the soul desires, since its origin is not Earth but the heavenly home, where it will remain forever. This disharmony then leads to stress, and the person becomes ill. This condition is referred to, among other things, as depression. Doctors rightly describe such a condition as mentally ill, which is absolutely true. This is because when the soul feels uncomfortable in its human body, it withdraws into itself. When it does this, there is no longer any subtle energy transfer to the human energy centers. This is important, however, for the person to feel good and for a lively energetic exchange between soul and body to take place. If unpleasant and unattractive life experiences are added to this, the stress becomes even greater and more intense. The soul would like to pass on the necessary impulses to the person, but cannot do so because person is not in a state to listen to their inner voice at that moment.

It is a true tragedy that many people believe that by using addictive substances, they can create a world for themselves in which they no longer feel vulnerable and can create a self-deceptive paradise for a short time. It is through the constant intake of such substances that the cells, a cell network, and thus entire organ systems are reprogrammed, which react with chaos if these substances are simply discontinued without medical supervision. Please believe that these addictive substances are programmed to directly influence the body's cells, not only through the addiction centers in the brain but throughout the entire organism. Through the soul, the cells could be reprogrammed. For this, a personal cell address would be very helpful.

, not only via the addiction centers in the brain but throughout the entire organism. The cells could be reprogrammed via the soul. For this, a personal cell address would be very helpful.

"My dearly beloved body cells, I am now consciously addressing you because I know that you are suffering greatly from my wrong actions, which I deeply regret. I would now like to be of help and support to you in this way, so that you can once again concentrate on the tasks for which you were created, namely to support my body with energy. Unfortunately, I have fed you substances that have burdened you greatly to this day, and you have lost your orientation in your work.

I would now like to change that, and I ask you to have faith in my confidence to change it now. Through my soul, I seek an intimate, heartfelt, and spiritual connection to our beloved deity within me. Through this, you will come under the direct influence of the energy that flows to me through my soul. Please accept this with complete trust, and you will be able to eliminate these substances with their addictive negative energies and render them ineffective.

Please do not despair and do not give up. I am confident that together we will succeed."

Dear people, the Spirit of God has unexpectedly sent this messenger this surprising message. This was not the intention and the messenger could not know what would be conveyed to him.

This cell address is valid for all addictive substances, regardless of their origin and mode of action.

You may use this in addition to your doctors' therapy. Through this direct cell address, you will restore trust in your organism. Over time, you will feel how your cells thank you by reacting with much less resistance during withdrawal.

You may read the text and, if possible, speak it aloud or, if this is not possible, silently in your mind. You may use it as often as you feel like it. (November 2025)

In the love of God
